

Corrugated Rubber Runners

Corrugated Rubber Floor Runners are similar to their vinyl runner mat counterparts but offer superior traction, especially when wet, for both the person walking on the mat as well as the floor mat itself staying in place on the floor, due to a higher coefficient of friction.

Rubber runners are ideal for environments where the mats will be rolled and unrolled with any frequency.

Corrugated Rubber Runners are available 1/8" and 1/4" thick and in lengths up to 150' long. (6' wide runner mats are only available up to 75' long).

These Nitrile rubber runner mats are designed for use in heavy traffic locations and especially useful in wet areas and can resist curling and warping.

Rubber runners have additional benefits. These mats can add a layer of insulation to any floor and can help regular the temperature while also muffling footsteps over noisy hard floor. Corrugated rubber runners can also be used in tool caddies and metal shelves as a liner.
